DELIVERABLES

For FY 2013-2014, all local family planning programs receiving TANF Out-of-Wedlock Birth Prevention funds must submit plans for the proposed use of their allocations to the Division. When this funding was first allocated, the State Director of Social Services and the management of the Division of Public Health agreed that local directors of public health and social services should devise local plans for these funds and implement whatever strategies would serve the specific community's needs relative to the prevention of out-of-wedlock births among TANF-eligible clients and among those at risk of becoming eligible as the result of unintended pregnancies. The Attachment C-1 plan must account for the full amount of the local agency's FY 2013-2014 TANF allocation. The Local Director of Social Services (or his/her representative) and the Local Health Director (or his/her representative) must sign on the Second page, with the Local Health Director also signing the Agreement Addenda, indicating collaboration between the two agencies.

Estimated Cost of TANF Out-of-Wedlock Birth Prevention Activities

1. Providing clinical family planning services to at-risk individuals (described above) who are not covered by Medicaid. Family planning clinical services reimbursed by Medicaid cannot be counted as TANF services. However, services for which Medicaid does not reimburse in family planning settings—such as psychosocial counseling and medical nutrition therapy—when delivered to the appropriate family planning clients may be counted as TANF services. Other services may include “wrap-around-type” services for high-risk clients, such as enhanced post-pregnancy test follow-up and intensive care coordination for clients at risk for contraceptive failure. $ _____

2. Public education/media campaigns targeted to the at-risk population (described above) and designed to raise the public's awareness of the importance of family planning services. Please describe public education/media campaign activities: $ _____
